

Constant high quality of the gas-flame equipment, marketed under the brand name "DONMET" is largely due to the work of the design department, where an automated design engineer

• Testing Research Laboratory specialists testing of new ideas and design solutions, holding

• Metrological laboratory specialists conduct verification and calibration of pressure measuring instruments. Department of technical control provide input, interoperable, and output control in accordance with the international standards.